

VANDERBILT WEDDING TO BE APRIL 29.

Oliver Harriman, Jr., Brother of Mrs. Lewis Morris Rutherford, Bride-to-Be, Announces that Ceremony Will Take Place in London at Residence of Secretary White.

SISTER OF BRIDE ONLY
RELATIVE TO BE PRESENT.

The Date of the Wedding Has Been Known to Them for a Week or More, but They Carefully Guarded the Secret—Mrs. Rutherford's Sons Go to Harvard.

The marriage of William K. Vanderbilt to Mrs. Lewis Morris Rutherford will take place a week from to-morrow—April 29—at No. 6 Whitehall Gardens, London, the residence of Henry White, Secretary of the American Embassy.

This much may be stated with comparative certainty, despite the secrecy which is being maintained by the relatives of both the contracting parties. Oliver Harriman, Jr., brother of Mrs. Rutherford, is authority for the date. Despatches from London are the authority for the place.

The only member of the family, of Mrs. Rutherford who will be present at the ceremony will be Mrs. William R. Travers, of No. 30 West Thirty-fifth street, a sister. She with the other relatives had known the secret for about a month and she had planned to go abroad two weeks ago. She was prevented by a cablegram from Mrs. Rutherford announcing that her two sons by her first husband, Winthrop Sands and Stephen Sands, aged twenty and eighteen years respectively, had sailed for this country to complete their education at Harvard.

Asked Sister to Meet Them.
Mrs. Rutherford asked her sister to meet them and see them safely at Harvard. They arrived last week and were taken to the university and duly installed. Mrs. Travers will sail to-morrow and will arrive just in time to attend the ceremony if the steamer she chooses has no bad luck.

Mrs. Travers would not talk about the wedding to-day. Oliver Harriman, Jr., when seen at his office, No. 13 Broadway, said that the family had known of the approaching marriage for a week. "But," he said, "our tongues have been tied by the promise which Mr. Vanderbilt and Mrs. Rutherford exacted from us. No one outside a very close circle knew anything about it, and I must say I think we kept the secret pretty well. All I can tell you, now that the announcement has been made, is that the wedding will take place April 29 and not to-morrow, as has been said."

Why Depew Was Silent.
Senator Depew, who yesterday was bound to deny all knowledge of the coming marriage of Mr. Vanderbilt, although he was bursting to tell it, explained to-day why he had to hold his tongue.

"Mr. Vanderbilt," he said, "asked me to say nothing about the matter, and as I have been his private counsel for twenty-five years, of course my lips were sealed. It was his desire that the matter should first become public through the granting of the application for permission to remarry in the courts. I know practically nothing of the details of Mr. Vanderbilt's plans. I don't even know whether the ceremony is to take place to-morrow or a week from to-morrow. I have met Mrs. Rutherford and found her a most delightful woman."

The Senator, who has not been long out of his last honeymoon himself, seemed to be greatly pleased that Mr. Vanderbilt had decided to take another wife.

Asked Relief from Court.
Mr. Vanderbilt announced his intention of remarrying by applying to the Supreme Court in this city for the rescinding of the prohibition in his former wife's decree of divorce, forbidding his marrying again during her lifetime. Justice Gieseler granted the order after the presentation of affidavits by Senator Depew and E. V. W. Rossiter that Mr. Vanderbilt's conduct for the past five years had been uniformly good, and that he was entitled to the relief asked for.

Mrs. Rutherford is now in London, visiting her sister, Mrs. White. Cable despatches from Paris say that Mr. Vanderbilt left that city late last night for London.

Mrs. Rutherford has been twice married and has two children. She is under forty, a remarkably well preserved woman, tall, graceful in carriage, a perfect blonde, with bright blue eyes and golden hair. Her features are regular, her face oval. She is athletic, and while a resident of this country was one of the most dashing equestriennes of the Meadow Brook Hunt.

The entrance of Mrs. Rutherford into society as Anna Harriman is an event which is still recounted among the social circles of New York's most beautiful society girls. She was a member of the society which organized the complimentary perfect blonde, with bright blue eyes and golden hair. Her features are regular, her face oval. She is athletic, and while a resident of this country was one of the most dashing equestriennes of the Meadow Brook Hunt.

MRS. LEWIS MORRIS RUTHERFURD,
WHO IS TO BE MRS. W. K. VANDERBILT.

young woman in the smart set.

The bride was "Patience," and both Mrs. Rutherford and her sister, now Mrs. Stephen J. Olin, were in the cast. When Anna Harriman appeared in her low cut and sleeveless gown a noted artist and portrait painter of the Four Hundred exclaimed:

"Miss Harriman has the arms that the Venus de Milo lost."

First Husband Was Killed.

Mrs. Rutherford's first husband was Samuel S. Sands, a wealthy New Yorker. Two children were born of this marriage. Mr. Sands was killed in 1889 while riding to the hounds in the Meadow Brook Hunt, and thirteen months later his widow was married, on June 30, 1890, to Lewis Morris Rutherford, Jr., son of the noted astronomer of that name and a member of one of the oldest families in Manhattan. She had gone abroad to reside after Mr. Sands' death. The wedding was celebrated at St. George's, Hanover Square, London. Brookholst Cutting was the best man. The wedding breakfast was served at No. 9 Grosvenor Crescent, then the residence of Mr. Henry White.

After his marriage Mr. Rutherford's health failed rapidly, and he and his bride spent most of their time automobiling about the Continent. On Jan. 6, 1901, Mr. Rutherford died at Devos Platz, Switzerland, from paralysis.

Mr. Vanderbilt's Marriage.

Mr. Vanderbilt was married in 1878 to Miss Alva Smith, of Mobile, Ala., and they lived unostentatiously until after the death of Mr. Vanderbilt's father. When the building of their Fifth Avenue mansion, followed by the erection of the marble palace at Newport, brought them to the pinnacle of social prominence.

After Mr. Vanderbilt's yacht Alva, named in honor of his wife, was wrecked in Cape Cod, he went abroad and remained until the building of the Vanderbilt mansion, followed by the erection of the marble palace at Newport, brought them to the pinnacle of social prominence.

FIGHT FAILS AGAINST CONSUMPTIVES' CAMP.

Bill Requiring Consent of County Authorities Did Not Get Constitutional Majority.

ALBANY, April 21.—The Assembly to-day failed to give the constitutional majority of seventy-six votes to pass the Goodell-Bedell bill requiring the consent of county and town authorities for a camp for consumptives.

The bill, while of a general nature, was intended to prevent the establishment of a hospital camp for New York City consumptives at Central Valley, Orange County.

2,000 STRIKERS LOOK FOR WORK.

Some of Them Leave Westchester County in Sloop Provisioned for Eighteen Days.

(Special to The Evening World.) MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., April 21.—More than two thousand striking carpenters in Westchester County, who have been unable to get work here, left the county to-day for other cities.

From New Rochelle and Portchester two sloops took a crowd of strikers to Long Island, where they hope to get positions. The sloop George Martin, with twenty-five strikers on board, carries provisions for eighteen days, and will sail all around Long Island until work is found.

A ferry system will also be conducted to bring carpenters back and forth from their work.

CUTTER'S FIRST TRIP.

The new cutter for the immigration service, known as the H. B. Chamberlain, went into service to-day and made her first trip. She carried the boarding officers and inspectors down the bay to meet the incoming steamers.

The cutter is manned by the regular crew that handled her before she was leased, but is commanded by Capt. Newcomb, of the Revenue Service. She is in direct charge of Immigration Commissioner Williams, who leased her with the acquiescence of the Treasury Department.

LEGAL ILLS RESULT OF "NATURE CURE." BEGGED ON HIS KNEES FOR MERCY

Professor Sues for Slander; Patient's Husband for Alienation of Wife's Affections.

Dishonest Bookkeeper Confesses Theft and Implores Magistrate to Set Him Free.

There's trouble in the "Nature Cure Sanitarium" of John Weinman, at No. 329 Steinway avenue, Long Island City. Just what the "nature cure" is did not develop to-day, when Weinman had Mrs. Louise Heckman haled to police court for slander. But Mr. Heckman thinks so ill of the treatment that he engaged Lawyer Benjamin Lyman to bring suit against the nature cure for alienating the affections of Mrs. Heckman.

Weinman's case was dismissed by Magistrate Conner when it appeared that the only charge he had to make was that Mrs. Heckman did not recommend patients to the sanitarium. Mrs. Heckman explained that she could not because Weinman failed to cure her of dropsy. She also knew of other women—the sanitarium is exclusively for that sex—who rejected the treatment after a short while.

Mr. Heckman is a harness maker living at No. 423 Steinway avenue. "From what my wife told me," he said to-day, "this nature cure is something awful and I'm going to expose it by bringing suit against Weinman."

Many Americans Would Fight the Turk.

ROME, April 21.—Ricciotti Garibaldi, leader of the Italian Volunteers in Greece in the war with Turkey, has received letters from almost every country in the world from men who volunteer to join the expedition to free Macedonia from Turkey, many of them from the United States. Among the letters is said to be an enthusiastic one from Countess Hortense de Nicolai, Vice-President of the Pennsylvania Women's International Alliance for Peace.

After stealing from his employer for a number of years Samuel Roberts, bookkeeper for the Edward C. Lockwood Company, printers and stationers, at No. 141 Pearl street, fell on his knees in the Centre Street Court.

The fact that Roberts was a thief was discovered by the firm a year ago, when a shortage of $1,400 was found in his accounts. Mr. Lockwood discharged Roberts, but the latter was so penitent that he re-employed him, increasing his salary $3 a week, with the understanding that the $3 should be retained by the firm weekly to make up the deficiency account.

Roberts was faithful until a month ago, when it was ascertained he had stolen small sums aggregating several hundred dollars. He was arrested last night and arraigned before Magistrate Mayo in the Centre Street Court.

"I'm guilty," he told the Magistrate, "with a proviso."

"What is that?" inquired the Magistrate.

"The firm knew about it," replied Roberts, "and I have been making the deficiency good."

"Let me go," pleaded Roberts, "One night in jail has taught me a lesson. Not again for fifty years."

Roberts was held in $1,000 bail for trial.

CHIDED, SHE KILLS HERSELF.

AUBURN, April 21.—Grace Jewett, a prepossessing girl of nineteen, who lived with her parents, committed suicide by taking carbolic acid.

Her mother had chided her a moment before for remaining out all night Saturday.

HORSES TORTURED BY LAW.

Bankrupt's Team Goes Without Food or Water for Five Days.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., April 21.—A team of horses belonging to John E. Bergevin, a grocer, who recently filed a petition in bankruptcy, went without food or water for five days last week. The horses were starving by process of law when the neighbors, attracted by the neighing of the famished animals, reported the state of affairs to the authorities.

The horses were a part of Mr. Bergevin's assets, and after filing his petition he ceased to be accountable for any of the property, and the key of the stable was turned over to James K. Ward, his attorney. Mr. Ward gave orders to have the team taken to a boarding stable and supposed the order to be carried out. The animals were almost dead when found, but are now in the care of a veterinary surgeon.
